

5.2. International mobility for first degree students

The objective of the programme is to award grants to permit outstanding first degree students of the ceiA3 to engage in six-month stays at internationally renowned universities in the agrifood field.

To achieve this aim, agreements are currently being signed with schools and universities abroad.

These agreements may involve bilateral mobility between two universities or network mobility with several universities.

The ceiA3 will award 15 international academic mobility grants (Becas de Movilidad Académica Internacional ceiA3) to supplement expenses incurred or arising from academic mobility under existing international conventions and agreements, as well as other international mobility schemes. The aim is to recognize credits earned in corresponding degree programmes. The total funding allocated for this action is €120,000.
